

ABSTRACT

The present invention generally relates to organic photodetectors. Further, it is directed to an optimized organic photodetector having reduced dark current and high efficiency and response time.